ANY lines of which we forget the author haunt the memory of most of us; and many delightful ideas centre round their remembrance which can be only recalled

by the context; nor can we recall these more readily than by a Dictionary of Quotations on a systematic plan, and as perfect as the compiler can make it.

There are other books of quotations existing, but, these compilations generally are of large extracts taken hap hazard, which give the name of the author only, and the reader is left to wade through one or two volumes should he wish to verify a quotation. In the present work an exact reference of the chapter, act, scene, book, and number of the line is given, and the adherence to this plan cost, it is perhaps needless to say, great labour and much time. It is believed that no other work exists in the English language at once so copious and so exact, although in such a work perfection is almost impossible. Had the work consisted of three volumes instead of one enough would have been found to fill them; but it is felt that almost all the most known quotations have been gathered together, and placed in a certain order.

In order to make the body of the work itself an Analytical Index of its contents, certain prominent words which remain on the surface of the memory have been placed in italics; thus, Lord Rochester's line—often attributed to Pope, will be found not only twice in the Index, but under the italicised words, best good man in the body of the book. Moreover, in order that the loosest memory may be aided, a very copious Index has been added, in which frequently the same quotation has been indexed four or five times under its most remembered phrases. Wherever it has been found possible the quotation has been cut down to the bare words retained on the memory; it has been, however, impossible in one or two instances to avoid repetition.

"The best good man with the worst natured muse,"

Another feature of the work to which the compiler feels he may call attention is the parallel passages—in some instances, as in quotations from Milton and Wordsworth, in the very syllables used—which are added in the Notes. These could have been very largely added to, but it was felt that the purpose of the book should be always paramount in the mind of its compiler.

The Editor has to return his acknowledgments to many gentlemen; to the Editor of Notes and Queries. the columns of which he has frequently availed himself; to a work issued in America by Mr. Bartlett, in which all the quotations from one author are placed under the same name and who has omitted nearly twenty English authors here quoted from; to Mr. G. Wharton Simpson, who has aided him by valuable passages and by looking over many of the earlier proofs, and to other friends for kind hints and suggestions. The work has been a long time in hand, line has been added to line, and in its progress it has grown to its present dimensions, which are larger than was at first contemplated. When it is stated that if each line given be reckoned as a quotation, and many lines contain two, there are nearly seven thousand in the volume, the difficulty as well as the value of exact reference will be seen, and it is to be hoped, placed to the account of the compiler by an indulgent public, as a set-off against the few errata it was almost impossible to avoid.

Of the many beauties contained within these covers one may be permitted to speak freely; and of the great utility of the work there can, we imagine, be little question. It has gathered within its pages much of that which refines, strengthens, exalts, delights, and teaches every one. It is, in fact, a Book of Wisdom, holding more beauties than any book by a single author; and it is a gathering from many minds, that can alone be possible in the tongue of the richest and fullest literature in the world.

All the world's a stage,*
And all the men and women merely players;
They have their exits, and their entrances;
And one man in his time plays many parts.
His acts being seven ages. At first, the infant,
Mewling and puking in the nurse's arms:

Then, the whining school-boy, with his satchel. And shining morning face, creeping like snail Unwillingly to school. And then, the lover. Sighing like furnace, with a woeful ballad Made to his mistress' eyebrow: Then, a soldier, Full of strange oaths, and bearded like the pard, Jealous in honour, sudden and quick in quarrel, Seeking the bubble reputation Even in the cannon's mouth: And then, the justice: In fair round belly, with good capon lin'd, With eves severe, and beard of formal cut, Full of wise saws and modern instances. And so he plays his part: The sixth age shifts Into the lean and slipper'd pantaloon; With spectacles on nose, and pouch on side; His youthful hose well saved, a world too wide For his shrunk shank; and his big manly voice, Turning again toward childish treble, pipes And whistles in his sound: Last scene of all, That ends this strange, eventful history. Is second childishness, and mere oblivion; Sans teeth, sans eyes, sans taste, sans everything. SHARS. As You Like It, act ii. sc. 7.

Three Poets, in three distant ages born,
Greece, Italy, and England, did adorn;
The first in loftiness of thought surpassed;
The next in majesty, in both the last.
The force of nature could not further go;

Oh, woman! in our hours of ease, Uncertain, coy, and herd to please, And variable as the shade By the light quivering aspen made; When pain and anguish wring the brow, A ministering angel thou!

Scott, Marmion, can. vi. st. 20.

A guardian-angel o'er his life presiding, Doubling his pleasures, and his cares dividing.

Rogers, Human Life.

The accusing spirit, which flow up to heaven's chancery with the oath, blushed as he gave it in; and the recording angel, as he wrote it down, dropped a tear upon the word and blotted it out for ever.

L. Sterne, Tristram Shandy, vol. iv. ch. s.

Angels and ministers of grace defend us!

Shaks. Hamlet, act i. sc. 1.

Angels are bright still, though the brightest fell.

Shars. Macbeth, act iv. sc. 2.

Her angel's face,

As the great eye of heaven, shyned bright, And made a sunshine in the shady place. Spenser, bk. i. can. iii. st. 4.

Hush! my dear, lie still and slumber; Holy angels guard thy bed! Heavenly blessings without number Gently falling on thy head.

WATTS, A Cradle Hymn.

And yet, as angels in some brighter dreams, Call to the soul when man doth sleep; So some strange thoughts transcend our wonted themes, And into glory peep.

H. VAUGHAN, They are all gone.

As far as angel's ken.

Милон, Paradise Lost, bk. i. l. 50.

So dear to heaven is saintly chastity, That, when a soul is found sincerely so, A thousand liveried angels lackey her.

MILTON, Comus, 1. 453.

Angels listen when she speaks. She's my delight and mankind's wonder, But my jealous heart would break

Should we live one day asunder.

ROCHESTER, Poems.

But man, proud man! Dress'd in a little brief authority; Most ignorant of what he's most assured. His glassy essence,-like an angry ape, Plays such fantastic tricks before high heaven, As make the angels weep.

Shars. Measure for Measure, act ii. sc. 2.

O woman! lovely woman! Nature made thee To temper man; we had been brutes without you. Angels are painted fair, to look like you: There's in you all that we believe of heaven: Amazing brightness, purity, and truth, Eternal joy, and everlasting love.

T. Ottway, Venice Preserved, act i. sc. 1.

Besides, this Duncan Hath borne his faculties so meek, hath been So clear in his great office, that his virtues Will plead like angels, trumpet-tonqued, against The deep damnation of his taking-off. SHARS. Macbeth, act i. sc. 7.

Cease, every joy, to glimmer on my mind, But leave-oh! leave the light of Hope behind! What though my winged hours of bliss have been, Like angel-visits, few and far between. T. CAMPBELL, Pleas. of Hope, pt. ii. l. sts.

We are ne'er like angels till our passion dies. The Honest Whore, pt. ii. act i. sc. 2. How fading are the joys we dote upon! Like apparitions seen and gone; But those which soonest take their flight Are the most exquisite and strong; Like angel's visits, short and bright, Mortality's too weak to bear them long.

J. Norris, The Parting.

The good he scorned,

Stalked off reluctant, like an ill-used ghost, Not to return; or if it did, in visits Like those of angels, short and far between.

R. BLAIR, The Grave, pt. ii. l. 596.

In pride, in reasoning pride, our error lies; All quiet their sphere, and rush into the skies. Pride still is aiming at the blessed abodes, Men would be angels, angels would be gods.

Pope, Ep. i. l. 121.

A countenance more r., sorrow than in anger.

SHAKS. Hamlet, act i. sc. 2.

O, what a deal of scorn looks beautiful In the contempt and anger of his lip!

Do grow beneath their shoulders. These things to hear
Would Desdemona seriously incline.

SHARS, Othello, act i, sc. 3.

Canst thou not minister to a mind diseas'd; Pluck from the memory a rooted sorrow; Raze out the written troubles of the brain; And, with some sweet oblivious antidote, Cleanse the stuff'd bosom of that perilous stuff, Which weighs upon the heart.

Shars. Macbeth, act v. sc. 3.

Antres vast, and desarts idle.

Shars. Othello, act i. sc. 3.

For what is worth in anything,
But so much money as't will bring?
Butler, Hudibras, pt. ii. cau. i. l. 465.

How charming is divine philosophy!
Not harsh and crabbed, as dull fools suppose;
But musical us is Apollo's lute,
And a perpetual feast of nectared sweets,
Where no crude surfeit reigns.

MILTON, Comus, 1. 476.

I have planted, Apollos watered; but God gave the increase.

1 Cor., iii. 6.

Not she with trait'rous kiss her Master stung,

Not she denied him with unfaithful tongue; She, when apostles fled, could danger brave,

Last at his cross, and earliest at his grave.

Keats, St. Agnes.

Yet I argue not Against Heaven's hand or will, nor bate a jot Of heart or hope; but still bear up and steer Right onward.

Milton, Sonnet xxii.

In arguing, too, the parson owned his skill,
For o'en though vanquished, he could argue still;
While words of learned length and thundering sound
Amazed the gazing rustics ranged around;
And still they gazed, and still the wonder grew
That one small head could carry all he knew.
Goldstrin, Deserted Village, 1. 21.

Not to know me, argues yourselves unknown, The lowest of your throng.

How happy is he born or taught, That serveth not another's will;

Whose armour is his honest thought,

And simple truth his utmost skill.

SIR H. WOTTON, The Character of a Happy Life.

The hum of either army stilly sounds,
That the fix'd sentinels almost receive
The secret whispers of each other's watch:
Fire answers fire; and through their paly flames,
Each battle sees the other's umber'd face:
Steed threatens steed, in high and boastful neighs
Piercing the night's dull ear; and from the teats,
The armouvers, accomplishing the knights,
With busy hammers closing vivets up,
Give dreadful note of preparation.

SHARS, K. Henry V. act iv. chorus.

Arms and the man I sing, who forced by fate,

Earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust.

The Burial Service.

E'en from the tomb the voice of nature crics, E'en in our ashes, live their wonted fires. Grax, Elegy in a Country Churchyard.

Snatch from the ashes of your sires The embers of their former fires, And he who in the strife expires Will add to theirs a name of fear, That Tyranny shall quake to hear,

And leave his sons a hope, a fame They too will rather die than shame; For freedom's battle once begun, Bequeathed by bleeding sire to son. Though baffled oft is ever won.

Byron. The Giaour.

And how can men die better Than in facing fearful odds. For the ashes of his fathers,

And the temples of his gods.

MACAULAY, Lays of Ancient Rome.

Ask, and it shall be given you, seek, and ye shall find: knock, and it shall be opened unto you.

Matt. vii. 7.

Ask not of me, love, what is love! Ask what is good of God above-Ask of the great sun what is light-Ask what is darkness of the night-Ask sin of what may be forgiven-Ask what is happiness of Heaven-Ask what is folly of the crowd-Ask what is fashion of the shroud-Ask what is sweetness of thy kiss-Ask of thyself what beauty is :-And, if they each should answer I! Let me, too, join them with a sigh; Oh! let me pray my life may prove When thus, with thee, that I am love.

P. J. BAILEY, Festus.

W. King, Upon a Giant's Angling.

To be, or not to be, that is the question :--Whether 'tis nobler in the mind, to suffer The slings and arrows of outrageous fortune: Or to take arms against a sea of troubles. And, by opposing, end them ?—To die,—to sleep,— No more ;-and, by a sleep, to say we end The heartache, and a thousand natural shocks That flesh is heir to,-'tis a consummation Devoutly to be wished. To die ;-to sleep ;-To sleep! perchance, to dream ;-ay, there's the rub; For in that sleep of death what dreams may come, When we have shuffled off this mortal coil, Must give us pause: There's the respect, That makes calamity of so long life: For who would bear the whips and scorns of time, The oppressor's wrong, the proud man's contumely,

The panes of despised love, the law's delay, The insolence of office, and the spurns That patient merit of the unworthy takes. When he himself might his quietus make With a bare bodkin? who would fardels bear, To grunt and sweat under a weary life, But that the dread of something after death .-The undiscovered country, from whose bourn No traveller returns-puzzles the will: And makes us rather bear those ills we have, Than fiv to others that we know not of? Thus conscience does make cowards of us all: And thus the native hue of resolution Is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought: And enterprizes of great pith and moment, With this regard, their currents turn awry, And lose the name of action.

Hoop, The Seasons.

A good book is the precious life-blood of a master-spirit, embalmed and treasured up on purpose to a life beyond life. Милок, Areopagitica,

Often have I sighed to measure By myself a lonely pleasure, Sighed to think I read a book, Only read, perhaps by me.

WORDSWORTH, (To the Small Celandine) From Poems of Fancy.

Tis pleasant, sure, to see one's name in print;

A book's a book, although there's nothing in't.

Bysox, English Bards and Scotch Reviewers, l. st.

Books cannot always please, however good; Minds are not ever craving for their food.

CRABBE, The Borough, letter xxiv. Schools.

He might have been a clever man by nature, but he laid so many books on his head that his brain had not room to move. ROBERT HALL. Life.

Of making many books there is no end; and much study is a weariness of the flesh.

Eccles. xii. 12.

The painful warrior, famoused for fight, After a thousand victories once foiled, Is from the books of honour razed quite, And all the rest forgot for which he toiled.

Shaks. Sonnets, son. xxv.

Learning hath gained most by those books by which the printers have lost.

FULLER, (The Virtuous Lady) Of Books.

Up! up! my friend, and quit your books, Or surely you'll grow double; Up! up! my friend. and clear your looks; Why all this toil and trouble?

Some books are to be tasted, others to be swallowed, and some few to be chewed and digested.

Society is now one polished horde, Formed of two mighty tribes, the bores and bored. Byron, Don Juan, can. xiii. st. ss. And hetter had they ne'er been born, Who read to doubt, or read to scorn.

Scorr, The Monastery, vol. i. ch. 12.

Burn in a garret, in the kitchen bred.

Byron, A Sketch.

Full many a gem of purest ray screne,
The dark unfathomed caves of ocean bear;
Full many a flower is born to blush unseen,
And waste its sweetness on the desert air.
GRAY, Elegu in a Country Churchyard.

I was not born under a rhyming planet.

Suars. Measure for Measure, act v. sc. 2.

In the lost battle, Borne down by the flying, Where mingles war's rattle With groans of the dying.

Scott, Marmion, can. iii. st. 10.

Neither a borrower nor a lender be, For loan oft loses both itself and friend; And borrowing dulls the edge of busbandry. This above all,—To thine ownself be true; And it must follow, as the night the day, Thou canst not then be false to any man.

Shaks, Hamlet, act i. sc. 3.

No farther seek his merits to disclose, Or draw his frailties from their dread abode, (There they alike in trembling hope repose,) The bosom of his Father and his God.

Not stepping o'er the bounds of modesty.

Shars. Romeo and Juliet, act iv. sc. 2.

A youth, to fortune and to fame unknown;
Pair science frowned not on his humble birth,
And melancholy marked him for her own.
Large was his bounty, and his soul sincere,
Heaven did a recompense as largely send:
He gave to misery (all he had) a tear,
He gained from Heaven ('twas all he wished) a friend.
Gax's Elegy, The Epitoph.

Here lies what once was Matthew Prior; The son of Adam and of Eve: Can Bourbon or Nussou claim higher?

PRIOR, Epitaph on Himself.

And that it was a great pity, so it was,
This villations saltpetre should be digged
Out of the boxels of the harmless earth,
Which many a good tall fellow had destroyed
So cowardly; and but for these vile guns
He would himself have been a soldier.

Shaks, K. Henry IV. Part I. act i. sc. 3.

Thus far into the lowels of the land
Have we marched on without impediment.

SHARS, K. Richard III. act v. sc. 2.

There St. John mingles with my friendly bowl,

The feast of reason and the flow of soul.

Pope, bk. ii. sat. i. l. 127.

And braggart with my tongue!

Shars. Macbeth, act iv. sc. s.

Is this a dagger which I see before me,

The handle toward my hand?

Art thou not, fatal vision, sensible

To feeling as to sight; or art thou but

A dagger of the mind: a false creation

Proceeding from the heat oppressed brain?

Toid. act ii. sc. 1.

Shall quips, and sentences, and these paper bullets of the brain awe a man from the career of his humour?

Shars. Much Ado About Nothing, act. ii. sc. s. Brain him with his lady's fan.

Shaks. K. Henry IV. Part I, act ii. sc. s.

Ibid. act v. sc. 1.

O that men should put an enemy in their mouths, to steal away their brains.

Shaks. Othello, act ii. sc. 3.

The times have been,
That, when the brains were out, the man would die,
And there an end; but now they rise again,
With twenty mortal murders on their crowns,
And push us from our stools.

Shars. Macbeth, act iii, sc. 4.

The combat deepens. On ye brave, Who rush to glory, or the grave!

CAMPBELL, Hohenlinden.

But to my mind,—though I am native here,
And to the manner born,—it is a custom

More honoured in the breach, than the observance.

Shaks. Humlet, act i. sc. 4.

As quick as lightning, in the breach, Just in the place where honour's lodged, As wise philosophers have judged,

Because a kick in that place more Hurts honour, than deep wounds before.

Butler, Hudibras, pt. vi. can. iii. l. 1067.

Gets him to rest, crammed with distressful bread.

SHAKS. K. Henry V. act iv. sc. 1.

Stolen waters are sweet, and bread eaten in secret is pleasant.

Man shall not live by bread alone.

Matt. iv. 4.

Cast thy bread upon the waters; for thou shalt find it after many days.

Eccles, xi, 1.

At the foot of thy crags, O sea!
But the tender grace of a day that is dead
Will never come back to me.

Tennyson, Poems.

You may as well say—that's a valiant flea, that dare eat his breakfast on the lip of a lion. Shaes. K. Henry V. act iii. sc. 7.

He that has light within his own clear breast May sit i' th' centre and enjoy bright day; But he that hides a dark soul and foul thoughts, Benighted walks under the mid-day sun.

MILTON, Comus, l. 281.

What stronger breastplate than a heart untainted?
Thrice is he armed that hath his quarrel just;
And he but naked, though locked up in steel,
Whose conscience with injustice is corrupted.

SHARS. K. Henry IV. Part II. act iii. sc. 2:

Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey,
Where wealth accumulates, and men decay,
Princes and lords may flourish, or may fade,
A breath can make them, as a breath has made;
But a bold peasantry, their country's pride,
When once destroyed, can never be supplied.
Gonssurn, The Deserted Village, I. s.

When the good man yields his breath
(For the good man never dies).

Montgouery, The Wanderer of Switzerland,

One more unfortunate

Weary of breath,

Rashly importunate,

Gone to her death.

Hamlet. As woman's love.

Shars. Hamlet, act iii. sc. 2.

Brief as the lightning in the collied night, That, in a spleen, unfolds both heaven and earth,

And, ere a man hath power to say,—Behold! The jaws of darkness do devour it up:

So quick bright things come to confusion.

Shaks. Mid. Night's Dream, act i. sc. 1.

"Forward the Light Brigade! Charge for the guns!" he said: Into the valley of death

Rode the Six Hundred.

Tennyson, Charge of the Light Brigade.

By heaven methinks it were an easy leap,
To pluck bright honour from the pale-faced moon;
Or dive into the bottom of the deep,
Where fathom-line could never touch the ground,
And pluck up drowned honour by the locks.

Shars. King Henry IV. Part I. act i. sc. 3.

It were all one,

That I should love a bright particular star,
And think to wed it: she's so much above me!

No ceremony that to great ones longs, Not the king's crown, nor the deputed sword, The marshal's truncheon, nor the judge's robe, Become them with one half so good a grace, As mercy does.

Shars. Measure for Measure, act ii. sc. 2.

O thon! whatever title please thine ear,
Dean, Drapier, Bickerstaff, or Gulliver?
Whether thou choose Cervanite's serious air,
Or laugh and shake in Rabelais' easy-chair?
Pors, The Dunciad, bk. i. l. z.

Gratiano speaks an infinite deal of nothing; more than any man in all Venice. His reasons are as two grains of wheat hid in two bushels of chaff: you shall seek all day ere you find them; and, when you have them, they are not worth the search.

SHARS. Mer. of Venice, act i. sc. 1.

There is no flock, however watched and tended,
But one dead lamb is there!
There is no fireside, howsoe'er defended,
But has one vacant chair.

LONGFELLOW, Resignation.

Stretched on the rack of a too easy chair,
And heard thy everlasting yawn confess
The pains and penalties of idleness.

SHARS, Hamlet, act i. sc. 2.

Early, bright, transient, chaste as morning dew, She sparkled, was exhaled, and went to heaven.

Young, Night Thoughts, night v. l. co.

I thought of Chatterton, the marvellous boy, The sleepless soul that perished in his pride;

Of him who walked in glory and in joy,

Following his plough along the mountain-side.

Wonusworm, Revolution and Independence, st. 7.

The cheap defence of nations, the nurse of manly sentiment and heroic enterprize is gone.

Burke, On the French Revolution.

When I consider life, 'tie all a cheat.
Yet fooled with hope, men favour the deceit;
Trust on, and think to-morrow will repay:
To-morrow's falser than the former day;
Lies werse; and while it says, "Wo shall be blest
With some new joys," cuts off what we possessed.
Strange cozenage! none would live past years again,
Yet all hope pleasure in what yet remain;

And from the dregs of life think to receive

What the first sprightly running could not give.

Deven Automorphe set in se

Devden, Aurengzebe, act iv. sc. 1.

Doubtless the pleasure is as great Of being cheated as to cheat.

BUTLER, Hudibras, pt. ii. can. iii. l. 1.

She never told her love,
But let concealment, like a worm i'the bud,
Feed on her damask cheek: she pined in thought,
And, with a green and yellow melancholy,
She sat, like Patience on a monument,
Smiling at grief.

Shaks, Twelfth Night, act ii. sc. 4.

He that loves a rosy cheek,
Or a coral lip admires,
Or from star-like eves doth seek

Fuel to maintain his fires;
As old Time makes these decay,
So his flames must waste away.

Butter, Hudibras, pt. ii. can. iii. l. 20.

So we grew together, Like to a double cherry, seeming parted.
Sules. Mideummer Night's Dream, act iii. sc. 2.

There is a garden in her face,

Where roses and white lilies grow; A heavenly paradise is that place,

Wherein all pleasant fruits do flow,

There cherries grow, that none may buy Till cherry ripe themselves do cry."

R. Altson, Recreations, 1666. Look how the floor of Heaven

Is thick inlaid with patines of bright gold. There's not the smallest orb which thou behold'st, But in his motion like an angel sings, Still quiring to the young-eyed cherubims: Such harmony is in immortal souls; But, whilst this muddy vesture of docay

Doth grossly close it in, we cannot hear it. SHARS. Mer. of Venice, act v. sc. 1.

* Herrick, who published his Resperides in 1648, has a song which * Herrick, who punts now are a security of the leaves of the sing.

Cherry ripe, ripe, ripe I cry,

Full and fair ones, come and buy.

Bruss, On Cont. Gross's Percyrications through Scotland.

I have seen

A curious child, who dwelt upon a tract
Of inland ground, applying to his ear
The convolutions of a smooth-lipped shell;
To which, in silence hushed, his very soul
Listened intensely; and his countenance soon
Brightened with joy; for from within were heard
Murmurings whereby the monitor expressed
Mysterious union with its native sea.
Womsworth. The Eccursion, bk. iv.

On parent knees, a nakrd new-born child, Weeping thou sat'st while all around thee smiled; So live, that sinking in thy last long sleep, Calm thou may'st smile, while all around thee weep. Sin W. Joses, From the Parsian,

A simple child, That lightly draws its breath, And feels its life in every limb, What should it know of death?

Wordsworth, We are Seven.

And listens like a three years' child.

Wordsworm, Lines added to the Ancient Mariner.

It is a wise father that knows his own child.

Share. Mer. of Venice, act ii. sc. 2.

Grief fills the room up of my absent child, Lies in his bed, walks up and down with me; Puts on his pretty looks, repeats his words, Remembers me of all his gracious parts, Stuffs out his vacant garments with his form.

SHARS. King John, act iii. sc. 4.
When I was a child, I spalse as a child.

1 Cor. xiii. 11.

The child is father of the man.

Wordsworth, My Heart Leaps Up.

The child is not mine as the first was,

I cannot sing it to rest,
I cannot lift it up, father,
And bless it upon my breast.

J. R. Lowell, The Changeling. Yes, child of suffering, thou mayst well be sure,

He who ordained the sabbath loves the poor!

Love is a boy by poets styled,

Then spare the red and spoil the child.

And to his eye

There was but one beloved face on earth, And that was shining on him.

Byron, The Dream, st. 2.

The first man is of the earth, earthly.

1 Cor. xv. 47.

Earth felt the wound, and nature from her seat Sighing through all her works, gave signs of woe, That all was lost.

MILTON, Paradise Lost, bk. ix. l. 782.

Wert thou all that I wish thee, great, glorious and free,
First flower of the earth, and first gem of the sea.

Moorr, Remember Thee.

No eye to watch, and no tongue to wound us, All earth forgot, and all heaven around us.

Moore, Come o'er the Sea.

Earth here is so kind, that just tickle her with a hoc, and she laughs into harvest.

D. Jerrold, The Hermit.

There were giants in the earth in those days.

Matt. v. 13.

A youth to whom was given So much of earth, so much of heaven.

WORDSWORTH, Ruth.

The thirsty earth soaks up the rain, And drinks and gapes for drink again; The plants suck in the earth, and are With constant drinking fresh and fair.

Cowley, From Anacreon.

Thou sure and firm-set earth, Hear not my steps, which way they walk, for tear The very stones prate of my whereabout. Shars. Macbeth, act ii. sc. 1.

To smell a turf of fresh earth is wholesome for the body; no less are thoughts of mortality cordial to the soul. FULLER, Holy State, The Virtuous Lady.

Truth crushed to earth shall rise again: The eternal years of God are hers; But Error, wounded, writhes with pain, And dies among his worshippers.

W. C. BRYANT. The Battle-Field.

I am going the way of all the earth.

Josh vviii 14.

Earth's noblest thing, a woman perfected.

J. R. LOWELL, Irené.

But earthlier happy is the rose distilled, Than that which, withering on the virgin thorn, Grows, lives, and dies, in single blessedness. Shaks. Midsummer Night's Dream, act. i. sc. 1.

Thus heavenly hope is all carene. But earthly hope, how bright soe'er, Still fluctuates o'er this changing scene As false and fleeting as 'tis fair.

HEBER, On Heavenly Hope and Earthly Hope.

Whate'er he did was done with so much ease,

In him alone 'twas natural to please.

The vulgar boil, the learned roast an egg.

Pope, Satires, ep. ii, bk. ii. l. ss.

Let still the woman take
An elder than herself; so wears sho to him,
So sways she level in her husband's heart;
For, boy, however we do pruise ourselves,
Our fancies are more giddy and unfirm,
More longing, wavering, sooner lost and won,
Than woman's are.

SHARS. Twelfth Night, act iii. sc. 1.

So geographers, in Afric maps,
With savage pictures fill their gaps,
And o'er unhabitable downs
Place elephants for want of towns.
So, naturalists observe, a flea
Has smaller fleas that on him prey;
And these have smaller still to bito 'em,
And so proceed ad infinitum.

Swift, Poetry, a Rhapsody.

She walks the waters like a thing of life,

And seems to dare the elements to strife,

Bynox, The Coreair, can. i. st. z.

His life was gentle, and the elements
So mixed in him, that Nature might stand up,
And say to all the world, This was a man!
Share, Julius Casar, act v. sc. s.

In discourse more sweet,

For eloquence the soul, song charms the sense: Others apart sat on a hill retired,

In thoughts more clevate, and reason'd high

Of providence, forcknowledge, will and fate;

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute,

And found no end, in wandering mazes lost.

Milrox, Paradise Lost, b. ii. l. sss.

Shars. Hamlet, act i. sc. s.

A brave man struggling in the storms of fate,

And greatly falling with a falling state.

Pore, Prologue to Addison's Cato.

Vain pomp and glory of this world, I hate ye; I feel my heart new opened. O how wretched Is that poor man that hangs on princes' favours! There is, betwirt that smile we would aspire to, That sweet aspect of princes, and their ruin, More pangs and fears than wars or women have; And when he falls, he falls like Lucifer, Never to hope again.

SHARS. K. Henry VIII. act iii. sc. 2.

False as dicers' oaths.

Shaks. Hamlet, act iii. sc. 4.

That practised falsehood under saintly show, Deep malice to conceal.

Vain wisdom all, and false philosophy.

MILTOA, Paradise Lost, bk. ii. l. ses.

Ah! who can tell how hard it is to climb

The steep where Fame's proud temple shines afar?

JAMES BEATTIE, The Minstrel, bk, i. st. 1.

Fame is the spur that the clear spirit doth raise (That last infirmity of noble mild.) To seorn delights and live laborious days; But the fair guerdon when we hope to find, And think to burst out into sudden blaze, Comes the blind Fury, with the abhorred shears, And slits the thin-spun life.

MILTON, Lycidas, 1. 10.

What is the end of Fame? 'tis but to fill

A certain portion of uncertain paper.

Byron, Don Juan, can. i. st. 218.

Folly loves the martyrdom of Fame.

Monory, On the Death of Sheridan, 1. ss.

I'll make thee glorious by my pen, And famous by my sword.

MARQUIS OF MONTROSE, Song, My Dear and Only Love.

I awoke one morning, and found myself famous.

Not so sick, my lord, As she is troubled with thick-coming fancies, That keep her from her rest.

SHARS. Macbeth, act v. sc. s.

We figure to ourselves
The thing we like, and then we build it up
As chance will have it, on the rock or sand:
For thought is tired of wandering o'er the world,
And home-bound fancy runs her bark ashore.

Tatiog, P. van Arteedde, pt. i. act i. sc. 5.

All impediments in faucy's course
Are motives of more funcy.

Share, All's Well that Ends Well, act v. sc. 3.

While fancy, like the finger of a clock,
Runs the great circuit, and is still at home.
Cowyer, The Task, bk.,iv. The Winter Evening.

Misled by fancy's meteor ray,
By passion driven;
But yet the light that led astray
Was light from heaven.

COWPER, On Observing some Names of Little Note.

Good night, good night! parting is such sweet sorrow, That I shall say good night, till it be to-morrow.

Swars, Romeo and Juliet, act ii, sc. 2.

In the winter of 1824, there set a great flood upon the town of Sidmouth, the tide grose to a terrible height. In the midst of this sublime and terrible storm, Dame Partington, who lived upon the beach, was seen at the door of her house with mop and pattens, trundling her mop, squeezing out the seawater, and vigorously pushing away the Atlantic Ocean. The Atlantic was roused, Mrs. Partington's spirit was up: but I need not tell you the contest was unequal; the Atlantic Ocean beat Mrs. Partington. She was excellent at a slop or a puddle, but she should not have meddled with a tempest.

Polonius. What do you read, my lord? Hamlet. Words, words, words.

Shars. Hamlet, act ii. sc. 2,

For still the world prevailed, and its dread laugh

Which scarce the firm philosopher can scorn.

Thomson, Autumn, 1. 22.

I have not loved the world, nor the world me.

Byron, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, can. iii. st. 113.

No: the world must be peopled.

Shars. Much Ado about Nothing, act ii. sc. 2.

The world is too much with us; late and soon, Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers.

Wordsworth, Miscellaneous Sonnets, pt. i. z.

Friend to my life, which did not you prolong,
The world had wonted many an idle song.

Pope, Ep. to Dr. Arbuthnot, 1. 27.

Of whom the world was not worthy.

Where their worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched.

Mark ix. 44.

The spirit of the worm beneath the sod
In love and worship, blends itself with God.
SHELLEY, Queen Mab.

Kings are like stars—they rise and set—they have

The worship of the world, but no repose.*

SHELLEY, Hellas.

He wales a portion with judicious care; And "Let us worship God!" he says, with solemn air.

Burns, The Cotter's Saturday Night.

Nay, dearest, nay: if thou would it have me paint. The home to which, could love fulfil its prayers, This hand would lead thee, listen !—A deep vale; Shut out by Alpine hills from the rude world, Near a clear lake, margin'd by fruits of gold And whispering myrtles; glassing softest skies As cloudless, save with rare and roseate shadows, As I would have thy fate!

A palace lifting to eternal summer Its marble walls, from out a glossy bower Of coolest foliage, musical with birds Whose songs should syllable thy name! At noon We'd sit beneath the arching vines, and wonder Why earth could be unhappy, while the heavens Still left us youth and love! We'd have no friends That were not lovers: no ambition, save To excel them all in love! We'd read no books That were not tales of love-that we might smile To think how poorly eloquence of words Translates the poetry of hearts like ours ; And when night came, amidst the breathless heavens, We'd guess what star should be our home when love Becomes immortal: while the perfumed light Stole through the mist of alabaster lamps, And every air was heavy with the sighs Of orange groves, and music from sweet lutes, And murmurs of low fountains that gush forth I' the midst of roses !- Dost thou like the picture? E. L. Bulwer, Lady of Lyons.

Oh! would I were dead now,
Or up in my bed now,
To cover my head now,
And have a good cry.

HOOD, A Table of Errata.

She only said "My life is dreary,
He cometh not," she said;
She said "I am aweary, aweary,
I would that I were dead."

TEXNYSON, Marianna, Poems, p. 9.

Godiva! not for countless tomes
Of war's or kingcraft's leaden hist'ry,
Would I thy charming legend lose,
Or view it in the bloodless hucs
Of fabled myth or myst'ry.

And what is writ is writ, Would it were worthier.

Bynox, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, can. iv. st. 185.

He who would not be frustrate of his hope to write well hereafter in laudable things, ought himself to be a true poem. Milrox, Apology for Smeetymmus.

YE-YIELDING.

E critics sav

How poor was this to Pindar's style? PRIOR'S Burlesque of Boileau's Ode.

Ye free-born sons, Britannia's boast,

Firm as your rock-surrounded coast, Ye sovereigns of the sea : Assist, uphold your Church and State, Your great men good, your good men great,

Awe all abroad, at home unite, And jolly join in faction's spite,

Then, then, my friends, you're free.

DIBDIN, Sea Songs.

The same dull sound; the same dull lack

Of lustre in the level grav: It seems like yesterday come back,

With his old things, and not to-day.

OWEN MEREDITH, Wanderer.

Oh, yet we trust that somehow good Will be the final goal of ill,

To pange of nature, sine of will, Defects of doubt, and taints of blood.
